Installation of Bawell Alkaline Water Ionizers:

Your Bawell water ionizer machine is designed to rest on your kitchen counter top just like any other appliance, or you may use the included wall mount to hang it near your sink. It features a two-way faucet adapter which screws into the aerator's location on the faucet. To install the ionizer simply unscrew the current aerator on your sink and connect the adapter. The adaptor enables you to switch between operating the faucet normally or routing water into the ionizer with the push of a button. Our 1775 and 2195 series machines feature the ability to connect directly to the water line below your sink in addition to the ability of connecting to your faucet directly with the adaptor however all our machines must remain on the counter top and should not be placed below the sink.

The water ionizer can even be used with reverse osmosis systems or any other water purification system that may be currently installed in your home (with the exception of salt based purification systems). The ionizer can also be adapted to fit large or smaller faucets, depending on your needs.
